SPAIN YIELDS TO THE DEMANDS OF THE UNITED STATES IN THE VIRGINIUS MATTER.

THE WORDY WAR OVER.

New York. November 29.—A double-leaded editorial in the Times treats of peace as a foregone conclusion, and praises what it calls the good temper and tast of Admiral Polo and Secretary Fish in having effected it. It adds: "There can be no impropriety in mentioning that Admiral Polo has endeavored by all honorable means to bring about a peaceable solution, without forgetting for a moment the claims of his country."

A Herald dispatch says Secretary Fish has nodoubt that the Spanish government will be able to enforce orders restoring the Virginius to the United States. The Colonial Minister, Solor, now in Havana, will personally see that orders of home government are carried cut.

The Tribune's dispatch says the dispatch deciding the grave questions whether there shall be peace or war between the United States and Spain, was received by Mr. Fish to-night and communicated to the President and Cabinet. It is of the most satisfactory character and concedes to all demands made

These demands, as heretofore stated, were as follows: First. The release of the officers also agrees to bring to trial and punishment the officers who perpetrated the horrible

MADRID, November 20.—The Spanish Cabinet has agreed to deliver to the United States Government the steamship Virginius and all persons remaining alive who were spatted with her, leaving the question whether the seizure of the vessel was legal, to be settled hereafter by a mixed tribunal. The question whether the damages shall be paid to families or relatives of the prisoners who were shot, is also to be settled in a similar manner. This decision was not arrived at by the government before it had confidently consulted with the Powers of Europe, and was informed by all of them that reparation was due to the applier of the steamer and execution of the captives. The decision is also in conformity with the opinions of the leading Spanish statesmen of all parties, to whom the question was submitted by the government.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

A ak was sprung under the turrett, through which water poured in with alarming rapidi-y. Commander Yates expected the Moni-or would go down, and ordered boats to be laured and life boats distributed. Subsechared and life boats distributed. Subse-evently the Monitor became easier, but being in a leaky condition, and her bijge pumps having become choked and everything and everybody drenched through, it was decided best to return to the Delaware breakwater and give up going to Key West. The Man-hattan will probably be ordered to Philadel-phis for receive.

a peaceable solution, without forgetting for a moment the claims of his country."

A Herald dispatch says Secretary Fish has no doubt that the Spanish government will be able to enforce orders restoring the Virginius to the United States. The Colonial Minister, Solor, now in Havana, will personally see that orders of home government are carried eut.

All the Washington specials in the morning journals unite in asserting that Spain has conceded to our demands, and peace is assured.

The Tribune's dispatch says the dispatch

THE AMERICAN AND SPANISH AU-THORITIES SIGN A PROTO-COL OF PEACE

as follows: First. The release of the officers and crew of the Virginius yet living. Second. The return of the Virginius, 'Third. Salute of the flag and provision to be made for the families of the slain captives.

The only reservation on the part of Spain is with reference to firing a salute to enable future investigation to be made. The date for this salute has been fixed at the 25th of December to provide for the contingency of Spain's not ocing able to enforce the promised concessions. Work on naval construction is not to be interrupted. The Times dispatch, in addition to the above, says Spain also agrees to bring to trial and punishment and also to-day, it can now be positively and also to-day, it can now be positively stated that the terms are substantially as or treaty stipulations.

4. The matter of reclamations for damages, was reserved for future consideration. In addition to the above it can also be positively stated that within the next two days itively stated that within the next two days Secretary Fish and the Spanish Minister will determine the port at which the Virginius and the surviving passengers and crew shall be delivered to the United States. The words of immediate release as applicable to the delivery of the Virginius and the surviving passengers and crew implies, of course, a reasonable time for its execution as some days must classe before Haof course, a reasonable time for its execution, as some days must elapse before Havana and Santiago de Cuba can be reached.

The agreement is regarded in official circles as covering all the points of our original demands, though in a modified form, while it is considered respectful and honorable to both countries. The fixing of the 25th of December as the time for saluting our flag is to allow the necessary opportunity to Spain to show that the Virginius improperly carried the American flag and American papers.

There is a sensible belief in all quarters that the negotiations have thus peaceably enped. Both Secretary Fish and Admiral Polo have for two weeks past been engaged in progressing the result, on which they receive the congratulations of their respective friends.

THE NEVADA JUDGE'S STORY

"I don't see how I could have done more for him than I did; but still the man should not have been punished—he should have been acquitted.

With these words the judge awoke to the consciousness that he had a fellow traveler; and then, as if some explanation of his remark would be in order, he went on:

"We had a very interesting trial in Austin dast week. Tom Carberry—Irish Tom, he is called—was tried for murder. I defended him and never struggled harder for client in my life. For a week before, and throughout the trial, I worked night and day to look up testimony, and to present the case to the jury in the best possible light. I consulted with all the autorneys not engaged for the prosecution. We got him off with three years in the penitentiary; but he ought not to have been punished—he should have been acquitted."

The fellow passenger queried as to the circular and the structure and the circular and the structure and the circular and the cir

"It is the depth of winter,' was objected, and we are hundreds of miles from Austin.
The journey cannot now be made.'
"Kill him in the spring,' said the unre-enting woman.

"With the opening of travel in the spring there arrived at Salt Lake City, by the Mon-tana stage, an individual who freely antana stage, an individual who freely anacounced that he was on his way to kill Carberry. Salt Lake Citv is a long way from Austin, but the friendships of border men span much greater distances. Tom was quickly advised of the approach of his visitor, but he took no steps either to get out of the way or to be specially prepared to see company. He was then employed at the Keystone Mills, nine miles from town, and he staid there nearly a whole week after he knew that the Montana chap was in Austin.
You see, Tom is a peaceable man, and he didn't want any difficulty. Most men would have come in at once, and got the affair off their bands!'

The listener entertained doubts at this point, but saying nothing, the Judge pro-point, but saying nothing, the Judge pro-ceded: "Saturday evening, just as usual with him, Tom came into the city, and after getting shaved and fixed up for his holiday, he went around to the saloons, where many of the people of the mining towns spend their leis-ure, to meet his friends. It wasn't long before the encountered the Montana fellow, who began at once, in Tom's hearing, to make in-sulting remarks."

Here the listener interrupted with: "Why did he make insulting remarks? If he had made a long journey solely for the purpose of killing Tom, why didn't he shoot him off hand?",

"Because," said the Judge, "that would have been murder. The community is down on murder, and he would have been dangling from off an awning beam in fifteen minutes. Killing is a very different matter. When two men get into a fight, and all is fair between them, and one kill the other, the community don't ordinarily seem to feel much concern on the subject. community don't ordinarily seem to feel much concern on the subject.

Finder such circumstances, the only way for Montana was to provoke Tom to a quarrel, and lead up to a fight. But Tom seem't disposed to gratify him—he wouldn't seem to be corated Dinner Sets that are Worth $250 for $250.

But Tom wasn't disposed to gratify him—he wouldn't take any notice—didn't seem to hear; but repeatedly left one saloon to go to another, i cut to keep out of the way. Montana followed him up, until at last, standing right before Tom, he jumped up about two feet from the floor, and came down with a heavy jet, and said, 'I'm chief!' Even this Tom didn't resear—he only put his hands over this face and wept! Fact, sir, the tears actually flowed, until his best friends thought he was an arrant coward; and when he got up and went away to his room to bed, there

"'Well,' said Tom, 'you needn't apologise.
Come into the saloon and chink glasses with me, and we'll let the matter drop.'

"Then, Montana said, 'Tom Carberry, either you're generous or else you're a coward. I don't think you're cowardly, an' if I'd known you at the start, it's most likely I wouldn't tha' waded in. But the matter can't be let drop, for there's hundreds of people in my section an' between here and there who knows that I came here to kill you; so there's but two ways—we must fight or you must run. If you'll run, it'll be jest as good to me sat of fight.

"Tom's almost suppliant bearing disappeared on the instant, and he said: 'Stranger, I sin't much in the habit o' runnin', an' if we're to fight, we may as well have it out now, as any time. Are you heeled?"

"Tom asked this question because we have a law against carrying concealed weapons, which is regarded at such hours as people think they will have no use for their arms, and disregarded at all others.

"The answer was 'no; I left my revolver with the bar keeper o' the Exchange."

"Get it,' said Tom, 'I'll wait for you here,'

"The Exchange was in a corner building streets a treet which came in a tright angles."

"The Exchange was in a corner building across a street which came in at right angles to the sidewalk where they were standing. Montara went in at the front door, but came Montana went in at the front door, but came out at the side on the cross street, hoping to ateal up and 'get the drop' on Tom, but this was not so easy. Tom was wideawake—he had crossed the main street to guard against supprise; so, when Montana porced his pistol around the corner and followed it with just enough of his head to take sight, Carberry was not in range. In a moment their eyes met and the shooting began. Tom curled down close to the road bed, to present the smallest possible area as a mark, and because it is comparatively difficult to hit an object lying on the ground. Montana sheltered himself somewhat behind a low row of sacks of potatoes lying on the edge of the sidewalk, and partly behind a small awning poet. THE CUBAN QUESTION.

For the past week the dispatches from Washington have been quite war-like—"war to the knife" against Spain on account of the Virginius butchery; but within the last twenty-four hours the war storm in that quarter has lulled somewhat, and we are not sorry that it is so, for war is to be deprecated under any and all circumstances, and if the honor of the American government can be vindicated without a resort to arms, we for one shall be rejoiced. It is now rumored that the difficulty between Spain and the United States, growing out of the Virginius affair, will be settled by the arbitration of the German Emperor. When we remember the little that would be gained by such a war, the millions of additional debt that would be saddled upon the nation thereby, to say nothing of the political evils that would grow out of the war, and be felt more keenly by us of the South than by the people of any other portion of the country, we can but earnestly hope that this rumored arbitration is correct.

* * It should be remembered that should war be declared against Spain and the acquisition of Cuba be achieved, the South would gain nothing whatever there by—indeed she; would an order the south and the acquisition of Guba be achieved, the South would gain nothing whatever there by—indeed she; would see more prostrated, more tax burdened, more officially oppressed, than she is now, as it would open up new fields for carpet-bzg rule and free negro denomination, which would greatly strengthen the power of the Grant dynasty, the present chief desideratum of the Radical party. With The ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, we would caution not only ex-Confederates but all THE CUBAN QUESTION. desideratum of the fractical party. With THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, we would caution not only ex-Confederates but all others of our people to go very slow upon this Cuba question—to take no stock in this crusade until they look carefully into its merits and to the results,—Dulton Cilizen. WHO ARE TO DO THE FIGHTING ?

But suppose the Southern rebels should not wolunteer to any alarming extent—what then? The Government may succeed in getting a few companies of high-headed Charlesting a few companies of high-headed Charles-ton darkey militia, as we understand some of them are fairly foaming to get at the Span-iards; but our notion is that white volunteers would not bother the mustering officers with offers of themselves as targets for Spanish bullets. They have something else to do. They have their wives and children to take care of, having lost all their property through the tender mercies of the party that now control the Government. They feel very little interest in this fight with poverty and ruin staring them in the face. They have a living to make, and with all their efforts find they difficult to keep the wolf from the? it very difficult to keep the wolf from the

What will it profit them to see Cubs in the What will it profit them to see Cuba in the hands of the carpet-baggers and other vermin, and that fair and fertile island under the nurderous heels of the same gang that now dominates South Carolina, Louisiana and Mississippi? The Southern people have had more than enough of such infamous prosliution of the name and spirit of liberty. If the administration, wante volunteers y. If the administration wants volunteers com the South let it call on its favorite color. It has no right to expect "rebels" and "traitors," as it calls and treats the true Southern people, to desert their homes and risk their lives for the purpose of setting up another model on the fashion so-called governments that now rule and rob in three or four States of the "Union."

If the country is invaded or menaced with in the country is invaded or inchaecawith invasion Southern men will rally, as they have ever done, to its defense. They are Americans, and will stand up for their native land when it is threatened by hostile fleets and armies, but that is as much as can be expected of them. When it comes to voluntry as they beging to subjugate another country as they expected of them. When it comes to volunteering to subjugate another country as they have been subjugated and to impose such oligarchy of fraud, force, ignorance and brutality upon others as they have been forced to submit to here, count them out. ABOUT CUBA. In order to be in the fashion, we have wrestled faithfully with this subject ever since the recent massacre of the so-called patriots. We have ransacked our exchanges patriots. We have ransacked our exchanges to gather the popular feeling, and ransacked our memory, and that of several friends regarding previous fillibustering expeditions to the sand other places. We can find no case Cubs and other places. We can find no case where the United States government has heretofore actually interfered in favor of such adventurers. The Lopez expedition and Walker's ill-fated attempt are notable cases within the memory of middle aged men where the United States refused to take any sand though the sympathy of the party in power, if not the whole country was against the fillibusters. In the recent great Maxican power, if not the whole country was against the fillibusters. In the recent great Mexican-french fillibustering expedition, the United States took sides against Maximillian, and actually, though guardedly, perhaps approved of his brutal execution. Maximillian, although a carpetbagger, perhaps, and certainly to some extent a fillibuster, gave to semi-civilized Mexico the best and most liberal government she has ever had. But he was interemment she has ever had. But he was inter ment, and the Monroe doctrine was invoked in behalf of the bloody, treacherous, priest-niden, native oanditti, and the result was the brutal murder of this brave and chivalrous young Prince and his beautiful, amiable and loving wife and a number of their associates. For which murder, our own govern-

The army, and navy is being increased, which means more power for Grant, more money for dealers in shoddy, and occupation for thomands of worthless vagaboods, whose war cry is, beauty and booty. The papers of the North, especially the Republican ones, alwocate the immediate capture of Cuba by armed force. And it is strange, but true, that quite a number of Southern papers ad-

The Panic Over.

The country can delight itself with the ding of the disastrous fivancial panic, that owing to Radical misrule, swept the country with its destructive besom.

All over the country manufactories are reuming work. The night telegrams tell us that in New York the banks are on their feet. Yesterday loans are reported decreased half a million, specie increased two and a lions, and deposits six millions.

Atlanta Las averaged the neat disbursem of $75,000 a day in the purchase of cotton She has leaped to the honorable position of the place from this onward.

Altogether the prospects are cheering, and there is no reason why every body should not act on the idea that the panic is completely

Looking at the benefits that have resulted we see the most prominent one for the people to be the general cheapening of prices, and the larger capacity of money to buy.

It will be seen that the matter has been taken out of the hands of the American Minister to Spain, General Sickles, and the negotiations have been conducted in Washington by the American authorities, and the Spanish Minister to this country. The only hitch in the matter will be Spain's possible inability to make the Spanish authorities in Cubs execute the settlement. This, of course,

How far an indignant public opinion has forced the administration to promptness in this matter can be conjectured. But the administration thought it had a heavy backing of public sentimen; behind it.

The administration has expended several millions of dollars in its preparations for war. How far these preparations have effected the Spanish government in its offer of reparation is another matter of conjecture. But if we are not at fault in our memory, it was announced at the start that the Spanish President was most desirous of an amicable settlement. And any hitch in the negotiations seems largely due to Sickles' bungling di-

Contracts opened weak, then became very active and strong, and closed steady at a decline making the general advance for the week one-fourth to three-eights of a cent. Sales 125,000 bales. The causes for this continued upward movement are, smaller receipts than expected and, the report of the Agricultural Bureau, estimating the total crop at 3,700,-000 bales.

LIVERPOOL.

The market has been firm all the week with larger sales and a rise of 1-4 of a cent in the price. The causes are the same as given for New York; thus confirming the opinion of many, that the crop will be much less than last year. Also the suddenly easing up of the money market. The rate of interest having fallen from 8 per cent. to 6 per cent. in one day; and money is plenty, outside of the bank, at 5 per cent. per annum-If there is no great change in affairs, which can not now be foreseen, it is very likely the price for uplands may gradually rise to nine pence next month.

DECRMBER.

The course of the market for the past five years, for this month, has been as follows: 1868 gold was 185. Cotton opened at 251 cents, and closed at 26 cents. 1869 gold was 120. Cotton opened at 25 1-8, closed 25 8-8 1870 gold was 110. Cotton opened at 161 closed at 15 1-4. 1871 gold was 109. Cotton opened at 19, closed at 20. 1872 gold was 112. Cotton opened at 19 1-8, closed at 204. Of course there were some fluctuations, but no very violent ones. Neither do we expect

In one of our former numbers we stated that when good calico was selling at retail at 10 cents a yard, cotton would be about the bottom. One firm of this city is now selling all the best prints at 9 cents a yard retail; and we have no doubt they will sell Lonsdale bleached, one yard wide, at 15 cents per yard, as it can be bought is that many of the samples have been withdrawn from the market and held for higher prices, making the quantity offered for sale less than the actual demand; consequently it has been easy to put the price up. This week the Patrons of Husbandry held a convention in this city, and we conversed with quite a number of them. They all stated the same thing, that many farmers were holding back their cotton for better prices: but would begin to sell freely at 15 cents and unwards. The most of the cotton mills that had stopped, or were running short time, are making arrangements to resume and run full time again, and it is likely they will all be running to their full capacity by a new year. We have been asked several times this week, "why has cotton risen so suddenly?" and "why did you turn from a bear to a bull so suddenly?" To the first, we answer: the price went too low, and now it is likely it will rebound to as much too high a figure, as it was before too low. To the second, we reply, after looking at the situation in all its aspects, we were convinced that there were many just reasons for a rise in the price; and, therefore, it was our duty to give our planting friends our reasons for believing their cotton was this reaction too far. The price in New York has risen this week five-eighths of a cent, and here 11 cents. This is unreasonable, and, if continued, there will be danger of a sharp decline.

Last week we thought the price might rise two cents in two months; but if it rises four cents in two months, it is almost certain we hall have a sharp decline in February. For if the price is forced up very high, by the middle or last of January, there will be such a rush to sell, and the rivers of the West are likely to be high. So the receipts will be We have estimated the receipts this week, very large, that the price, whatever it may

The receipts at the ports each year for eight years, for three months-September October and November, are, in round num bers as follows, beginning with 1866: 468. 000; 470,000; 624,000; 796,000; 918,000; 890,-000; 1,141,000; 980,000.

In consequence of the lateness of the crop the yellow fever, low prices, and want of curreney to move this crop, we think the per cent, is not over 26 for this year, or about one per cent. less than the average for seven years, thus making the total receipts at the ports 3,770,000 bales, to which add 360,000 bales for overland and Southern consumption, and we have a total crop of 4,130,000 bales, which is our present estimate.

We have made the overland shipments large, because, on account of the lower prices PROSPECTS.

We do not think the price is high enough we were to enter the market now we had much rather buy than sell for a short term. OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Mr. Stephens' Arrival, Views and Plans.

Mr. Dunning our Postmaster-Blonde Belknap, the War Secretary, and His Trials---Specie Payments.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25, 1873. Hon, Alexander H. Stephens arrived here last evening, and has taken quarters at the National Hotel. I called this morning to pay my respects to this distinguished Georgian, and am glad to be able to announce to his many friends at home that he bore the fatigue of the journey here without apparent detriment to his health, and having rested well last night, he was quite bright and cheerful. He had a steady throng of visitors so that I could hardly get a word in edge-ways and I wished to get his advice concerning certain matters of interest to Georgia. Mr Stephens assured me, however, that I should have his counsel, and that he would himself send a point now and then to THE CONSTI-TUTION. A government official happening in, Mr. Stephens enquired of him whether he thought there would be any change in the ATLANTA POST-OFFICE. The official, who is in a position to speal authoritatively on the subject said he was cer tain that there would be no change in the De partment, having every confidence in the integrity of Mr. Dunning. I understood him tegrity of Mr. Dunning. I understood him to say there had been applications for the position, but that they would not be entertained. Mr. Stephens said he hoped there would be no change; that he did not know Mr. Dunning; had never seen him to his knowledge, but he sympathized with him in his misfortunes, and believed him to be an honest man. Among these who salled on honest man. Among those who called on Mr. Stephens to-day was

GENERAL HENNINSEN an old fillibuster, and of course while he rean old lillibuster, and of course white he remained the conversation ran on fillibustering in general, and the case of the Virginius in particular. Mr. Stephens said he was not a fillibuster, but he thought the Government should not interfere with such expeditions when they had got three marine leagues from shore. If any of our citizens choose to enshore. gage in such enterprises let them assume the risk.

With regard to the Virginius he declared our reasons for believing their cotton was worth more than they were selling it for. But now there is great danger of carrying she been captured while running the blockade the case would have been different; but then the Spanish officials had no right to put to death those on board. While Mr. Stephens thought the outrage on the American flag should be pun-ished, it was evident he did not believe it would be, and there are many more here in Washington who agree with him. The pro-posed war promises to terminate in a diplomatic muddle. Mr. Stephens is making up this programme for HIS WINTER'S WORK, but of course it is not yet complete. He will probably remain in his present quarters at the National, where he has a parlor with bed room adjoining, and will use a carriage in going to and from the Capitol. He contemplates being if daily attendance throughout the session, and will thus set a good example to some of the Southern members who are not as attentive to their duties is this respect as they might be, and are sometimes absent at a critical juncture when their votes are needed. Of course Mr. Stephens has no intimation as to what commit ees he will be placed on. That rests entirely with the Speaker, but I may safely predict that Mr. Stephens has no intimation, who is sure to be re-elected, will give the veteran statesman an honorable place. It has been suggested that Mr. Stephens could do good service to his section on the could do good service to his section on the Appropriation Committee, which had not ever a solttary Southern Representative smong its members in the last Congress. Mr. Stephens himself expresses a preference for the Committee on Foreign Affairs, on which the committee on Foreign Affairs, on which he would like to serve at this time, but as he will probably be appointed on more than one committee, it is to be hoped his name may be found in both when they are announced.

THE SECRETARY OF WAR AND THE INTER-Belknap, the blonde Secretary of War, has a holy horror of newspaper men, and since the Cuban question loomed up, they have made his life miserable, if his own statements in this respect are to be credited. He gives a very amusing account of his adventures a few nights ago. It was a cold blusgives a very amusing account of his adventures a few nights ago. It was a cold blustering night, and he was muffled up and walking rapidly toward the Arlington. At the corner of F street and Pennsylvania Avenue, he was hailed by a newspaper man and asked if there was anything new. Return. asked if there was anything new. Returning a negative answer, he pulled his coat collar over his face and hurried on; near the Arlington he met two more newspaper men, who saluted him, but he dashed by them and thought he had escaped, when he heard some one running after him and calling out "Mr. Secretary;" "Mr. Secretary;" "Mr. Secretary:" He concluded then to make a visit to a house in the neighborhood and hastened his face into a run, thinking to get in the door before being overtaken, but encountering a place where overtaken, but encountering a place where asked if there was anything new. Returnovertaken, but encountering a place where the pavement had been torn up, and, which had escaped his notice, he went headlong, and so was captured. He didn't interview however, worth a cent, as he afterward re-marked in describing the event.

Even more amusing is the account of how he received a number of correspondents who dropped in the ment—one after another a new unappear in the door would open and a correspondent the door would open and a correspondent appear he would call out: "How are you, appear he would call out: "How are you. But with? Walk in. Glad to see you. But about Cuba." This dropped in upon him at the War Der Smith? Walk in. Glad to see you. B mind now, not a word about Cuba." Th was a settler to the would-be interviewed but they would walk in and the Secretary. out they would waik in and the secretary would then inquire where they had been all summer, and how they had enjoyed themselves; and so the room gradually filled up, but the newspaper men didn't—not with Cuban news, at all events—and so after a while they took their leave, unsatisfied. # HARVEST GLEANINGS

An Antumn Abroad.

BY PROP. WM. HENRY WADDELL, UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA. No. 2.

Editors Constitution: No man will ever succeed in describing his sensations when first out at sea. The vast waste of waters, stretching on every side, until the horizon is met in a mighty circle, the sky arched in a blue canopy overhead, the sense of utter loneliness, and above all, the consciousness of the most absolute helple-aness, all form a combination of sensations which cannot be described. I had formed an idea that vessel of various sizes and classes were continually passing and that we should never be out of hall of some craft or other. So far from this being the case, we so rarely saw a vessel of any description whatever, that the appearance of a large ship, especially, called every man on board, from the Captain to the Cooks Scullion, upon deck to look at it. The monotony was so unbroken that much smaller diversions than a vessel created a monotony was so unbroken that much smaller diversions than a vessel created a

I could not perceive how I should accomplish this in the dark, but accompanied him on the upper deck and had pointed out to me a deep red light revolving just above the Northern horizon. It was the light-house (I have forgotten its name) on the extreme Southern point of Ireland, and all of the next day we were running along the eastern shore of the Emerald Isle. It certainly did not present a very verdant aspect at this point. Vast barren fields, with here and there a miserable hut covered with turf, was all which met our

The Aleppo could not approach her wharf, the tide being out, so the passengers and their baggage were transferred to a small harbor steamer, and in an increaibly short space of time we were deposited in the Liverpool Custom House. The English government having in its employ gentlemany officials, the delay produced in the expanination of the baggage was short, and the many officials, the delay produced in the examination of the baggage was short, and the inspection merely nominal. Tobacco and liquors seemed to be the only bug-bears, and they molested no man on account of a few cigars or a quantity of chewing tobacco for his own use. In other words the British government seemed to be disposed to regard steamship passengers as gentlemen and not swindlers, who were endeavoring to cheat the Custom House out of its legitimate duty. The New York Custom House, on the contrary, going, I suppose, upon the principle of "set a thief to catch a thief," has filled its offices with a set of most unmitigated scoundrels who levy a of most unmitigated scoundrels who levy a systematic black-mail upon unsuspecting travelers—forcing those who will not bribe them to pay duty upon every imaginable va-riety of article which can be brought under the letter of the law, or otherwise. riety of article which can be brought under the letter of the law, or, otherwise, unblush-ingly taking from travelers who are "posted" the most palpable bribes for not stealing from them. I was detained four hours in the New York Custom House, upon my return, and was forced to pay twenty-five dollars in gold, duty upon articles, every ingle ene of which was private property, intended for personal use, and not, in the strictest interpretation of the law, liable to duty.

I suppose nine out of every ten travelers from America to England go to the Adelphi Hotel. My first experience of a European hotel impressed me very strongly with its comfort, and, if a man chooses to make itso, its conomy. Nothing at first struck me so much as the number of females employed. A woman was clerk in the register office, kept the cooks and assigned the rooms. A woman was housekeeper and general supervisor. Women waited upon the rooms, and visor. Women waited upon the rooms, and, in short, performed all the functions of this huge establishment, excepting those of porters and table waiters. The same practice purvades, to a very large extent, all classes of business. In dry goods houses, especially, the selling-clerks are almost invariably women.

We spent but one day in Liverpool, most of which was passed in shopping. This employment is a very fascinating one in Engand, pericularly in the matter of clothing. Men's attire is two hundred per cent, dearer in America than in England. An excellent business suit of gray tweeds cast me about $11. I should have had to pay for it over here, not less than $25. Nothing, however, astonished me so much as the price of furs.
Many of these are brought originally from America, dressed and made up in England America, dressed and made up in England and, then, having been re-shipped to this country, are sold for double and triple the European prices French goods, however, are of course not proportionally so low in Iremained in Liverpool too short a time to see what little of interest there is to be seen, and there certainly is very little. The docks are well worth a visit, which, however I did not find time to pay them.

ON THE RAILROAD.

ON THE RAILROAD.

I had mapped out a tour for myself some, what more extended then that usually taken by travelers in Scotland, and as Glasgow was my initial point, thither we were whirled away one beautiful September morning.

Everybody now-a-days knows the difference between an American and a European milway car. The latter is much smaller and is divided into three apartments by transverse partitions. Each of these spartments is entered by a door in the side, which opens upon the bassage between the two seats stretching passage between the two seats stretching a side to side and facing one another. me passage between the two seats stretching from side to side and facing one another. Each seat in a first class car accommodates three persons; in a second class four. The ametrain carries cars of both classes, which differ only in the finer finish of the former. The second-class cars are abundantly-comfortable. The great objection raised by almost all Americans, is the close conhement in so small a space of the passens, who are locked in when the trainstant, and can not amuse themselves by walking about from car to car as with us. No water is provided on the train, and no far. The first class cars have metallic cylinder, coverned with green baize, which are filled with boiling water and, serve to keep the feet warm, but there is no other heating apparatus. Englishmen, on the contrary. apparatus. Englishmen, on the contrary, object to the lack of privacy on the American ars. They are horrified at the promiscuous direction. Afterwards, beautiful fields, onltivated like market gardens, stretched on both sides of the track, separated from onanother, as well as from the public highway, by nothing but exquisitely triamed hedges.

Wherever a fence was necessary, a stone wall subserved its purposes. Indeed, as often as otherwise, a man's estate was bounded by white graveled walks. All animals are confined in pens, or that there is no occasion for fences and walks. The houses are all of stone or brick. I do not remember to have seen in the whole of the fisland of Great Britain a wooden house. Even the hotels are built of huge unshapen stones, covered with straw. The country residences are surpassingly beautiful—the houses large and tasteful—the prounds most beautifully laid out, and the huge forest oaks, where they survived, of the most magnificent proportions.

GLASGOW.

I have rarely in my lifetime, been more astonished, than I was by the size of the city of Glasgow. I knew that it was a large and growing place, but I had no idea of its immense population, prodigious wealth and enormous commercial influence. When I was there, it was the third city in Great Britain in point of population, London and form the edifice, which is very striking and harmonises well with its purpose.

Space forbids a description of Broomielan Harbor—one of the grandest in the world—Glasgow Green, the beautiful old public park, the Royal Exchange, George Square, with its beautiful monuments of sir Walter Scott, Sir John Moore and Lord Clyde.

Suffice it to say, a week may be spent most profitably in Glasgow and its environs.

We copy below the opinions and strongly put arguments of journalists "from the moun-tains to the sea" against a convention. From the Brunswick Appeal, confessedly one of the most ably edited journals in the State,

Some persons advocate calling a convention of the people of Georgis for various reasons, one of which is to remove the capitol back to Milledgeville. So far as accessibility is concerned, we think, Atlanta is the best point. As to the "lobby" of that place having any greater influence upon the members of the Legislature than any other place, it is simply preposterous. There can be no difference in places so far as that is concerned. But there is a question which will eventually force itself upon the people. The building at Atlanta was not built nor is it suited for a Capitol. The time will come when the people will decide to have another. Would it be best to go back to Milledgville, where the State owns the old Capitol, or sacrifice that building and go to the expense of erecting a new one? In any event, a sacrifice has to be made, and as to whether it would pay best to pay the mortgage and then sell THE REMOVAL OF THE CAPITOL. pay best to pay the mortgage and then sell the building at Atlanta or the building at Milledgeville is a question of financial importance. Atlanta is a growing city, and property would likely bring a good price there, while at Milledgeville it would be sacthere, while at milledgeville it would be a rificed. Having never seen the Capitol at milledgeville, we do not know whether or mot it is of such a character as to make it.

Horses, Mules or Cattle.

At any rate, we do not think the argument would justify the expense of a Convention. We would think it better to wait until after the next Presidential election before going into a State Convention.—Brunswick Appeal. A CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

The press in Georgia is discussing the ne-essity of a constitutional convention to cessity of a constitutional convention to straighten up matters in Georgia. There are various reasons suggested, and these are pressed with a good deal of ardor, but we cannot confess conviction. The reasons may be good, but we do not think they are suffi-cient to warrant the calling of a convention during the next twelve months.

The present Constitution of the State may be defective for aught we know. We are not very familiar with it—no more so than many who are lustily calling for its sholition: many who are lustily calling for its abolition; but it seems to us that the State of Georgia is moving on very smoothly just now. The glar-ing defects in our fundamental law, and its af-fairs which so many of our cotemporaries profess to see, do not appear to have at all interfered with an honest, economical and faithful administration of our Government. Since Governor Smith went into office, the State has been controlled by the real repre-sentatives of the people have been, in the main, conducted for the best interests of the people, and not for the benefit of a few aliens and adventurers as was the case previously.

We cannot believe that there are enough defects in the present State Constitution to require so expensive a remedy as a conven-tion. The cost of holding an election for members of such a convention, and then the expenses of the convention after it assembles, will be considerable, and can be but poorly sustained at the present time. Those who would entail this additional turden on the people of the State must surely forget how scarce money is, and how difficult it is for people to pay the present taxes. That must be a very extraordinary necessity which would warrant an outlay of two or three hundred thousand dollars, while the State has one-fourth of its last issue of bonds still on hand, and is unable to dispose of them.

The talk about the necessity of removing the capital to Milledgeville is all bosh. The capital is doing very well in Atlanta; and if it were not, that alone is not sufficient to jus-

Let us hear no more about calling a convention. With a good Governor and a good Legislature, the present constitution will do very well until the finances of the people and the State get in better condition.—Lagrance Recorder

Mrs. Westmoreland's Lecture.

There was an audience that evidently comprised many former residents of the South at the Union League Theatre on Pure Blooming Complexion. Westmoreland gave her lecture on "Shots at Social Myths." The audience was also an eminently intellectual one, and its sympathy with the speaker was undeniable. The "social myths" of Mrs. Westmoreland were our friends, our acquaintances, our purposes and our beliefs, and the burden of her argument was to the effect that this life is but a fleeting show for man's illusion given; but the gloomiest view of our every day affairs was doubtless presented the better to suggest the brighter possibilities. The lecture included several sharp and timely hits, as we call them, shots at indispusable will be a support of the support of t table realities which are not social myths, and these, especially the allusions to Burriel and the problem in the ever-faithful isle, were warmly applauded. There was a refer-ence to "those classical idiots," Damon and Pythias, who, having nothing else to do and being unburdened with fears of an after-life, were willing to die for each other. But friends of this sort, the speaker thought, are not valuable now.

Mrs. Westmoreland has a gentle, musical voice, and her personal appearance was suffi-cient to awaken a prejudice in her favor be-

This will enable them to erjoy all sorts of little inexpensive comforts and pleasures at home, and make it still more a haven of rest, from the storms that world.

of the world.

It was a curious fact that during the first few weeks of the money panic hardly a woman was to be seen at the theaters, and but few at the opera. The audiences (not being large) are composed almost of men. Now they form as usual, about one-third of the assemblage, but it shows where retrenchment begins, and where it generally ends.

Wool, not only in cloth and serge, but in cashmere and myrino, is brought to the garbish light of day, and is put in contrast with prass buttons and jingling steel chains and high topped hats until one's heart is sickened and one feels as if one's own mother were being trailed about in the dust or in the mud. Let me, therefore, say a word as to the manner in which skin painting or enamelling must interfere with the functions which nature has given to the skin the duty of performing.

Were enamel ever so innocent chemically, it must, when applied to the skin in the manner in which skin painting or enamelling must interfere with the functions which nature has given to the skin the functions which nature has given to the skin the functions which nature has given to the skin the functions which nature has given to the skin the duty of performing.

There are other belt attachments which may or may not be worn in the street, such as tablets, smelling bottle, pencil case, watch, and the like. A felt hat trimmed with vel-vet and a plume of pheasant feathers prop-erly accompanies a cloth costume.

Navy blue jackets, mounted with gilt or oxydized silver buttons are coveted by all tag girls who do not possess one. Navy blue cloth suits trimmed with bands of gray chinchila, are the ambition of the dames.

like that of a statute. Until late years it was incredible that such a fashion could spread. The many reasons advanced for the avoidance of the use of enamel may be said to culminate in two—it prevents the skin from performing its proper fuctions, and causes an alteration of the original hue, giving it a dark and sallow tint. If a lady once resort to this practice she must continue to use the enamel, or she will be scarcely recognizable. To enamel once is to be forced to do so always.

Dedication.

On Wednesday, December 10th, 1873, the new Roman Catholic Church of this city, will be dedicated with imposing ceremonies.

On this occasion a grand Pontifical High Mass will be celebrated for the first time in this city.

The Dedication Sermon will be preached by distinguished Prelate. Church will open at 9 o'clock A. M , and the ceremonies will commence at 10 precisely. Admission for adults one dollar each; children fifty cents.

Pontifical Vespers in the evening at half past reven o'clock. Admission twenty-five cents.

The duliners of times has prevented an earlier completion of this magnificent church, and still impedes its further progression. In order to meet the scinal exigencies, and to liquidate a portion of a debt due, it has been deemed expedient by the Right Rev. Bishop to profit of the occasion by charging admission to the church on the day of its dedication. This measure, rendered necessary by stringent circum-stances, wit it is hoped, be heartly endorsed by all fervent Catholics who wish to see their great work

DIVERSIFIED AGRICULTURE

the Parmer's Convention-What has been Done.

The resolution to plant one-third of the next cross in small grain, one-third in cort and one-third in cotton elicited some discussion.

DR. J. B. LAYENDER, OF PIKE.

eaid that he found that diversified agriculture paid him best. He had twenty-five scree in turnips. His premium scre produced 1,552 bu hele, but the aver-age was 1,000 bushels per acre. He planted two pounds of seed per acre, three feet apart, on a clover acd. He used 1,500 pounds of South Carolina phos phate and 4,000 bushels of stable manure. He broke up the ground ten inches deep, and turned over the sod in June. He found clover and cow peas excellen feriliners. Clover was not so expensive to seed, and seeded earlier. He cut his clover in March and April, and then sewed peas, following the peas with a crop of turnips. He kept one patch in clover for seven years, but turned clover under generally every two years. To getrid of broom-sedge an infallible rule is do not let it go to seed. Has sown clover on light sandy soil in October, with small grain. He plows in every year, as he cannot carry it over two years of sandy soil. Stock thrives better on mixed food. Colt twenty bushels of corn per horse per ann plants bine, orchard and timothy grass and clever. His hogs never root up his clover. It is the way hogs are raised that causes them to root. He raises cotton to pay for labor. He follows cotton with wheat and corn crops, and never puts the same crop in the same field for over two successive years. Makes it an invariable rule to plant wheat. If he couldn't get his cotton picked out in time, would slow it in and sow what. Has made good wheat sown on the 18th of January, but from the arst to the 20th of January Is the best time. Sow big white during the last of October; purple straw in November, and early May in December. He raises everything to eat on his arm. Has found cattle raising profitable. Has sold $700 worth of cattle this year, and they pay better han cotton at present prices. If he owed $5,000 he the best means to meet it. Has found sheep and goats prefitable. Allows no strange does to come about his premises. The best use for loading dogs is to manure a square or two in the garden.

L F. LIVINGSTON, OF NEWTON.

The difficulty is want of information. We are only conversant with the cotton crop. Most farmers do not know that the western Irish potatoe will not grow in Georgia. We should try one crop at a time. Let us quit planting and go to farming. Farmers should raise their supplies and sell the overplus.

Harris' premises were thoroughly searched, but not a vestige of the pocket book or contents found. The above $45 is all that has yet been recovered. Of the crowd implicated in this robbery, the following were arrested yesterday, and locked up in the station house last night: H. W. Clower, Tu lower and James Perryman, white, also Carrie Hall, Becky Boyd, Charley Payne and Bob Carter, colored. The head villain, Clem Harris, departed as so and secured his booty, and unfortunately has not yet been caught. His salocn was levied on and shu last night. Mr Furlow is here and we hope he will stay until these gentlemen and ladies are pursu ing their proper avocations in the chain gang. The

Yesterday evening as the West Point train came is an elderly gentleman by the name of Camp was re leved, under the car shed, of his pocket b aining between $249 and $250, under the following circ umstances :

Mr. Camp entered the cars at Fairburn to come t tlanta, accompanied by a little girl, probably his niece. Soon after he got in, a gentlem onng man crossed over from his side of the car and ook a seat directly behind Mr. Camp. Matters remained in this position until the train reached the pot here. Mr. Camp and the little girl rose up to get out, and were closely followed by the nice young n. On the platform they found the usual crowd, and in the jam the young man quietly transferred M. Camp's pocket-book, containing the above sum to his cket. The little girl saw him as he did so, and says she would recognize him again. She tried to call Mr. Camp's attention to the fact that he was be-ing plundered, but unsuccessfully. He discovered ing plundered, but unsuccessfully.
